LEAD POISONING
That a lead trade is dangerous in proportion to its usefulness has been shown by the fact that the lead industry is now being attacked from the industrial front. There is also probably absorption from the lungs of lead exposed to it. While lead has developed new poisoning even when prevented from finding its way into the circulation of the blood showed deposits of lead.

The character of certain occupations has an influence on the type of lead poisoning which develops.
According to the Journal of the American Medical Association, "Thus "It is found that while composition in violent action suffer from colic from the severe type of lead poisoning they are subject to an unusual extent of diseases of the lungs and kidneys. The relation between chronic and chronic plumbism is shown in having diagrams based on the records of typographical trades in Vienna and Berlin. Colic is said by Langer to be most frequent among workers in white lead, in amalgam, storage-batteries, coach painting, (which means hand-painting) within the sewer farm with paraffin is found in brass-workers and in painters of electric and automobiles. The former are very distinct and poisoning, occurs rapidly."

THE SUPREME COURT Never in history has it been the privilege of a President of the United States to nominate a majority of the Supreme Bench of the Supreme Court of the United States.
Nine men constitute the Constitution of those now sitting have been appointed by President Taft—John Hughes, James and Van de Venter. And now President Taft will have to select a fifth to succeed Justice Harlan.

If some of the newspaper editors were not correct in their assumption that President Taft is not the great old man that the world has esteemed. However in high and low in this selection of men for judges. The business of the good judge is to interpret public opinion and keep the law abiding of the citizen.

There are men who make up the Supreme Court are the official records of our rights and liberties.
The country has every reason to feel safe with such a Supreme Court as we now have. Our Supreme Court is not to be stampeded by the demagogue. It can neither be bribed nor bought or intimidated.

The ideas in America are the proprietors. We are the country and we can afford to sit on our thrones at night and hang, then on the corner of the head post with our eyes on that all the well the day.

PROVERBS
A foolish son is a grief to his father and a bitterness to him that bears him.
Even a fool when he holds his peace is counted wise and in his silence his lips are sealed a man of understanding.
When the wicked counsels then counsel also contempt and with it humiliating reproach.

The words of a man's mouth are as deep as waters and the well spring of wisdom is as a flowing brook.
It is not too good to accept the person of the wicked to overthrow the testimony in judgment.
A fool's mouth is his destruction.

and his lips are the source of his soul.
He who is established in his work is a brother to him that is a great master.
The name of the Lord is a strong tower: the right one's strength into him is safe.
He that desires him the heart of man is broken and his face is filled with shame.
He that is first in his own way will be last in his own home.
Who is a fool who will not learn from the end of his days?
The fool is the end of his days.

UNDERWOOD IN NEW YORK
From Montgomery Advertiser
Editor The Advertiser Since coming to New York I have found such a strong Underwood sentiment I feel its nothing but right that the people of Alabama should know it.

Down in Dothan as we other Alabamians realize the immense progress given our party by Mr. Underwood's able leadership to the house, but we have underestimated his strength as a political possibility.
Until coming to New York on this trip I shared the opinion of most Southerners that no man from the South could be elected to the Presidency. I have found here that the man and not his geographical location that the business looking for.

The country I slide and third of household is stands no chance of gaining the Republican nomination.
Taft will be the nominee of his party notwithstanding, they understand he has been a disappointment because there is nothing else for them to do.

The business men here want a dependable man for President. They tell you frankly they have no other man they believe strong enough to win that they don't want to go West for a man and that the tariff is to be the main issue the campaign is to be fought on Underwood is the man to make the fight.

They tell you the time has come when they are glad to take a South-erner that they are glad to show the opinion that no man from the South could be elected to the Presidency rests only in the minds of the people of the South. The average business man here will tell you that we have no dividing line in our country to day that we are unified and that Underwood can win.

Very truly yours
S. O. Williams

OUR EXCHANGES

We got a few papers in our exchange list we think to much of this we would pay money for them if they wouldn't make an exchange.
Every newspaper editor has a table exchange that in large cities will be kept time to look over them and let them more careful and long.

But we got a new one the other day. We are getting paper from nearly all over this country but our mail brought in a copy of the Hindu India published at Bombay India under date of Friday January 19th.
Of course the new was a little old but it contained but nevertheless it was a valuable paper for it is the first copy that we have seen it is not a new paper but it has been running just seventy five years.
It is a mighty long time to run a paper in a town like we find in Bombay India is.

The paper is printed in English but one of the advantages is that all that Indian sound to them.
On one page of the paper we noticed the subscription list which is as follows:

The high subscription rate to the Hindu of India is $5.45 a year which is equal to a paper in this country including delivery.
So far we haven't figured it out and don't know the Indians subscription rate.
In another place the paper says twelve years a year.
We find two American makes of bicycles advertised and a well known American bicycle but in other places.
In another place the word column contains this ad. Which a really effacious remedy for baldness and

and his lips are the source of his
soul.
He who is established in his work
master.
The name of the Lord is a strong
tower: the right one's strength into
him is safe.
man is broken and his face is filled with shame.
He that is first in his own way
will be last in his own home.
Who is a fool who will not
learn from the end of his days?
The fool is the end of his days.

FOOD AND NATIONAL LIFE

In a brilliant address at the Good will Institute last night Dr. Wood Hutchinson discussing food diet a general conclusion that people should eat what their normal appetite craves.
It is an advice of a mixed diet it is a little value to soup, least breakfast foods not much to eat meat and much more to fish.
The foods going to make a bill and ration are meat, bread, butter, milk, eggs and vegetables.
He held that those people who have the most food are the strongest.

He exploded the theory that also about the best steady diet. An evening the statement that the recruiting lads had whipped the meat eaters Russians he said that for fifteen years Japan was preparing for that war by recruiting the strongest and best men for its army and by permitting the weaklings to go abroad. He also stated that the army ration in Japan was modeled after those of England and Germany.

He showed that American food is effective because it is well fed.
He stated further that when the Japs and the East Indians that some of this country they are not able to do as much work as the same people in later years who begin to eat hard after the manner of Americans.
He further showed that in Panama the labor imported from Jamaica and the Barbadoes and Portugal is not as effective as that taken from the United States.

He holds that children should have sugar and that sugar has great food qualities and that the eating of candy therefore is the great fulfillment of a normal craving on the part of the child. He would have children fed often and in a reasonable manner provided with whatsoever their appetite demands.

Well fed children make strong men and well fed people make a strong nation and this brings the application of his theory down to a practical point. The American laborers and American business people have been strong and are strong because they are well fed. If the high price of food then causes cutting down the quality and quantity that men eat our own people will deteriorate in the place of the Europeans.

The high price food is a matter which should be of keen interest to the American people for the reason set forth by the lecturer. It would be unfortunate indeed if in this great country the man who toils could not earn an amount sufficient to provide him with money with which to secure food and satisfy a normal appetite.

The American people have been great eaters. The American laborer man has had meat on his table every day. Most of them have upon dishes of milk and butter and eggs.
The question then is not how little on which a man can live but the question is to provide men with enough to live upon comfortably.
Man is an engine and food is the fuel to run this engine. Man as a creature is limited by his engine capacity and his engine capacity is controlled by his food in fuel supply. Commercial Appeal.

FACTS
He likes other careless habits men have they are apt to display. It is with checks in them in a curious manner about the point lately.
A good man truly but boys get over it all they have read in the best all.

Some people better but little about their neighbors as long as they can stay on the right side of the fence and the doctors don't bother.

Some men in it careless to try to attract attention with others can't help it.
There is really no excuse for any more wearing whippers as long as so much money is spent advertising shaving appliances.

Some people fail to drink enough water on rising in the morning and instead of getting up on the wrong side of the bed.
A boy has to get almost grown before he can wear a new suit of clothes without showing it in their lamp.
When a railroad company is sued for $25,000 most people wonder if the case will finally be compromised for $100 or $750.
People who ride in automobiles a good deal have about as much worth as troubles to worry over as the fat men.
Probably the telephone girls know more about the temper of the people than any other class of citizens except a professional collector.
A boy needs watching when he can order things in a restaurant in the language of the waiter.
Two classes of people are sent away for criminal operations. Those with money enough to afford it, and those who haven't it and really need the operation.

HER PLANS MADE.
Harry—Where do you propose to go next summer?
Helen—I intend to propose to a man who is in a position to take me where ever I want to go.

THE KIND WORDS CLUB.
Harry—I note that Mrs. Garfield seems stuck on those diamonds she wears.
Mabel—Yes it's easy to get stuck on paste.

WARMTH IN PAPER?
She—They say that paper will keep one warm.
He—That's right too. A pretty day note of mine once kept me in a sweat for three months.

NEW NEWS OF YESTERDAY

Unsharpened Plan That Zachary Taylor Gave Up.

He Wanted to Make Vice President Fillmore a Member of His Cabinet But Yielded to Opposition of Senate.

BY E. J. EDWARDS

"I have often wondered whether President Zachary Taylor was not right when he tried to make the vice president of the United States an ex-officio member of his cabinet," said Thurlow Weed, the great Whig leader, to me about two years before his death which occurred in 1882 when he was chatting refreshingly of General Taylor, who more than to any other man, owed his election to the presidency to Thurlow Weed.

"For some reason the explanation for which I never learned, continued Mr. Weed, 'Taylor conceived a great liking for Vice-President Fillmore. I doubt whether the two men had ever met until the time of their inauguration as president and vice-president was close at hand. However Fillmore had an fascinating almost captivating manner which was well known to us, especially when brought into contact with a man of the stamp of Zachary Taylor. It may be that Fillmore in that way had captivated Old Rough and Ready having in mind the desire to keep a good grip upon such New York state patronage as Taylor had to dispense.

Whether this surmise be correct or not it is the fact that when General Taylor was deciding upon his cabinet a short time before his inauguration he determined to invite Mr. Fillmore to become a member of the cabinet ex-officio.

"He spoke of that determination to one or two members of his proposed cabinet who were with him a day or two before the inauguration. He said that in his opinion the vice-president should be made thoroughly familiar with administrative business since he might at any moment be called upon as John Tyler had been to take the oath as president.

Whatever their private opinions may have been of this plan the men to whom General Taylor talked did not venture to suggest any objection to it to General Taylor. They did hint to him however that before he invited Fillmore to become ex-officio a member of his cabinet he should ask some of the Whig senators what their opinion about the expediency of the plan was. At first General Taylor declined to take the hint. He said that the cabinet was his official family and it was not necessary for him to find out what the senate thought respecting cabinet appointments since he had learned that the senate is a mixture of fumes and conness always confined manna long to the cabinet.

Then it was said to General Taylor that he ought to remember that the vice president of the United States is the presiding officer of the senate and in case of a tie has power to vote so as to break it. For this reason it would be no more than courtesy to learn what senators thought of the propriety of having the vice president sit ex-officio in cabinet meetings.

General Taylor saw the force of this suggestion and conferred with two or three senators. They told him bluntly that the senate would not for an instant tolerate an ex-officio appointment of the vice president as a member of the cabinet. That it would be regarded as a grievous mistake if the president were to invite the vice president to attend all cabinet meetings even though the vice president was present only informally.

When General Taylor learned how the senate was sure to feel in case he followed this plan he abandoned it. But I know that as long as he was president he felt more than ever convinced that it would be the part of wisdom to recognize the vice president as ex-officio an informal member of the cabinet.

I don't know but what I am inclined to agree with the view taken by General Taylor. The vice president is now only a figurehead a contingent possibility. He is about the most influential of all our public officers and I think he ought to be as influential as any except the president himself.

Mistakes Must Be Expected
Most people go over the same routine every day. They rise at the same hour and lie down at the same hour. In all that space of time, between their rising up and their lying down they are doing familiar things. Every movement they may make is one that they made yesterday and the day before that. There is no excuse, apparently, for errors. But every man who is familiar with office shop work or any other form of human endeavor knows that there is always a certain percentage of mistakes to be expected.

TALKING STOCK LAW
The county commissioners will be in session again Saturday to hear the pleas of the people of the west end of the county who want stock law. Some of them want it while others do not, and Judge Crawford advised them to leave it with the people of the territory affected and the commissioners will let them know what to expect Saturday.

Probably the newspapers of the country would never have to publish anything else of their own getting if they would only use the snags that's sent them by the various banks.

Superintendent J. V. Brown of the City Schools said today that he has secured the famous Killers band for two concerts. This is the band about which there has been so much comment lately. Residents of Dothan should remember late Sept. 1 V. Brown for bringing an attraction like the Killers to our little city. It is only at rare intervals that the people of any locality are privileged to hear the famous Killers for they are traveling continually and are not always in the United States. It must be remembered that the Killers are widely known in practically the whole civilized world and they are not only the most widely known but are the most popular. In the martial dress of Auld Scotch the Killers have swept through twenty different countries and have literally set things on fire. From the time of their organization eleven years ago, right up to the present this great enthusiasm has continued to spread from one place to another from one continent to another.

Killies excitement is contagious and phenomenal. The sparks of their magnetic talent have flown all around and where ever they have alighted have set fire and the great flame of enthusiasm has spread and gathered force until the present moment when we learn that the Killers are to be with us in the month of this time.

ENTIRE COUNTY MUST VOTE ON COMMISSIONERS
Although it will be necessary for the candidates to reside in the district they wish to represent as county commissioners the entire county must vote on them during the election. The law divides the county into four congressional districts and each district will have a representative which will be elected by the county at large.

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS
J. H. HARRIS has been named a candidate for the office of county commissioner for Hamilton county District No. 2 subject to the action of the Democratic primary April 1. J. H. Blackmon.

Soldier Who Was Father of Mexican Railways.

Gen. William B. Rosecrans, Who Was Minister to Mexico After Civil War, Was Largely Responsible for Their Development

By E. J. EDWARDS

No soldier who had served with distinction in the Civil war and who was afterwards elected a member of congress ever attracted more attention from the galleries than did Gen. William B. Rosecrans. Old Ben, as the soldiers called him, when he entered the house of representatives in 1871. He had as a colleague Gen. Joseph J. Johnston, with whom he was on most friendly terms and in the senate were Gen. John A. Logan and Ambrose B. Burnside and a little later Gen. William Mahone. Rosecrans was the personification of sincerity of perfect honesty and he had as no superior in the house of representatives. He was a man of high intelligence and a fine character.

When Gen. Rosecrans became a member of congress a great deal of discussion was prevailing as to the practicability of constructing a ship railroad across the Isthmus of Mexico in order to get away with the long voyages around the Horn. The plan had been advanced by Capt. James H. Lusk, who had gained an international reputation as an engineer partly through the construction of the Isthmian canal and partly through his successful building of the jetty system near the mouth of the Mississippi river, which resulted in the long delayed deepening of the river channel. Before Gen. Rosecrans entered congress he had been assistant to Mexico. I had heard that he was much interested in Capt. Lusk's plan for a ship railway across the Isthmus of Mexico and at the first opportunity I asked the general if he would tell me whether he thought Lusk's plan was practicable or not.

I have no doubt about the practicability of the construction of a ship railway across the Isthmus of Mexico, he said with emphasis. It is not a very difficult scheme, from an engineer's point of view. All that would have to be done would be to build a railroad of six tracks that could accommodate platform cars. Then the ships could be hauled from the Atlantic harbor by an incline to these cars constructed on the dock system and then the locomotives would haul them across the isthmus to the Pacific side. And vice versa. The only trouble with Lusk's plan is that it would cost a great deal of money.

When I was minister to Mexico in 1884—that was just after Juarez had overthrown Maximilian and set up the republic in the country. There was one thing that was very true at that time and that was that there were two or three little ones elsewhere and that about tells the whole story. But I had not been in Mexico six months before I realized that with ample railway facilities the republic would become in time one of the most prosperous nations in the world unquestionably of that part of the world lying to the south of the United States. So I suggested to President Juarez the construction of a ship railway across the Isthmus of Mexico. I explained how such a road would shorten by thousands of miles the transit of freight by water from the Atlantic to the Pacific side of the American continent. Juarez agreed with me that such a line should be built. I also told him that Mexico should have not only a central railway running to the Pacific coast but also lines parallel to it that would run to the east, the Gulf of California, the Gulf of Mexico and the Gulf of California. He asked me if I thought a railway could be built across central Mexico through the mountains of the Sierra Madre. I told him that I was certain of it and that there never yet existed a mountain chain through which something of other power could not be found.

For some time after I ceased being minister to Mexico I have been in the country and watched the railway development of the republic. I believe that I was the first man to point out the great possibilities of the ship railway development of the Mexican republic and I have often been asked that I told him that such a plan would make Mexico a great power in the world. I am glad to see however that this development is now under way and that a central railway through the mountains of the Sierra Madre is now being built. I venture to make the prediction as you that within the next fifteen or twenty years a transcontinental line will be built across the Isthmus of Mexico from the Atlantic to the Pacific coast and that it will be a magnificent enterprise.

General Rosecrans died on his 71st birthday, the 10th of April, 1902. He was a native of New York and was a member of the Union Army during the Civil War. He was a member of the Union Army during the Civil War. He was a member of the Union Army during the Civil War.

Sight That Fairly Sobered an Upright Senator.

Comments of William P. Frye After All Members of Upper House Except Quay Had Sworn They Hadn't Speculated in Sugar

By E. J. EDWARDS

In the summer of 1891 a committee of the United States senate of which Senator George F. Frye of Delaware was chairman spent several weeks in the east, visiting various public and private members of the senate during the consideration of the so-called Wilson tariff bill and reported in the senate of the American Sugar Refining company commonly called the sugar trust.

The sugar schedule in the Wilson tariff bill occasioned prolonged and excited discussion in the senate. Some senators were in favor of reducing the tariff on raw sugar to a nominal point, while many other senators favored increasing the rate and while the discussion was in progress the accusation was publicly made that various senators had been speculating in sugar and so speculating that their votes upon the sugar schedule would be affected by their venture into the sugar market.

In the course of the investigation into the truth of these accusations it was suggested that a very serious case be made before the committee. It was to be left under the committee whether or not he had been speculating in sugar at any time during the pendency of the tariff bill. This was done and every senator testified and every one with a single exception declared having directly or indirectly speculated in the securities of the sugar company. The one exception was the late Senator Matthew Smith of Pennsylvania, who frankly and courageously testified that he had speculated, adding that he had closed his speculative accounts before the senate had voted upon the sugar schedule.

Some weeks after the close of the investigation I met the late William P. Frye senator from Maine and he told me that he had been among others summoned before the investigating committee to give testimony and had been indicted for refusing to tell the committee from whom he obtained the information on which I based my newspaper letters accusing senators of speculating in sugar. He began of his own accord a conversation with me upon that subject.

I have always liked Matt Quay personally and Senator Frye, although when I first knew of him I must confess that I knew that he would go a little further in political management than I was willing to go when I was chairman of the Republican state committee in Maine. You may remember that I succeeded Mr. Mahan as chairman of that committee. However that is neither here nor there. What I want to say to you is that Quay gained my unbounded respect and admiration when he appeared before the sugar committee and in reply to the question whether or not he had been speculating in sugar, testified frankly and openly to the committee that he had. It is my opinion that there is today not a member of the senate who does not credit to Quay a higher feeling of duty than he had the courage to say that truthful testimony in a case that had been before him.

And I want to add a word to the man who was a senator and a man who was a senator and a man who was a senator. I believe that I was the first man to point out the great possibilities of the ship railway development of the Mexican republic and I have often been asked that I told him that such a plan would make Mexico a great power in the world. I am glad to see however that this development is now under way and that a central railway through the mountains of the Sierra Madre is now being built. I venture to make the prediction as you that within the next fifteen or

Are You Nervous?

What makes you nervous? It is the weakness of your womanly constitution, which cannot stand the strain of the hard work you do. As a result, you break down, and ruin your entire nervous system. Don't keep this up! Take Cardui, the woman's tonic. Cardui is made from purely vegetable ingredients. It acts gently on the womanly organs, and helps them to do their proper work. It relieves pain and restores health, in a natural manner, by going to the source of the trouble and building up the bodily strength.

TAKE CARDUI The Woman's Tonic

Mrs. Grace Forner, of Man, W. Va., took Cardui. This is what she says about it: "I was so weak and nervous, I could not bear to have anyone near me. I had fainting spells, and I lost flesh every day. The first dose of Cardui helped me. Now, I am entirely cured of the fainting spells, and I cannot say enough for Cardui, for I know it saved my life." It is the best tonic for women. Do you suffer from any of the pains peculiar to women? Take Cardui. It will help you. Ask your druggist.

Indiana Not Dying Out

Exclusive of Alaska, the Indian population of the United States in 1910 was in round figures 255,000 as compared with 4,000 in 1830 and 24,000 in 1890. Contrary to the popular notion the Indian is increasing, the gain in numbers man over far less a phalanx than his growth in industry and intelligence. The 4,000 Indians residing in New York chiefly remnants of the old Iroquois follow the same pursuits as their white neighbors do the same, and were in completion after the whites in no essential particular. Much more than a third of all the Indians in the United States, or 117,000, reside in Oklahoma. Most of these are members of the old Five Civilized Tribes (Cherokee, Creek, Choctaw, Chickasaw and Seminole) each of which, in the old Indian territory, which was part of the present state of Oklahoma, had a civil government of its own for two-thirds of a century with schools, churches, mines, factories, mercantile houses, banks and other accessories of the highest civilization.—United States.
